

Dr. Jacci Fedeler

Dr. Jacci grew up on a hobby farm in New Richmond, Wisconsin. Her family had a variety of animals including dogs, cats, horses, cattle, ducks, sheep, and goats. Growing up caring for these animals and trail riding helped nurture her love of animals leading her to her interest in veterinary medicine at a young age. Jacci's areas of interest are small animal wellness care, soft tissue surgery, dentistry (equine and small), equine wellness and lameness care.

She attended undergraduate school at Iowa State University, receiving a bachelor's degree in Animal Science. She went on to veterinary school at Iowa State University College of Veterinary Medicine, graduating in 2010.

She then completed an internship at Merritt and Associates Equine Hospital in Wauconda, Illinois (now Chicago Equine Medical Center). There she received in-depth training in equine lameness, joint injections, diagnostic imaging, and internal medicine. She then spent two years as a mixed animal practitioner in Viborg, South Dakota working with dogs, cats, horses, and livestock.

Jacsi is married to Dr. Ryan. They have two boys, Jaxon and Brayden. The family also shares their home with two dogs (Jake and Lexi), cats (Socks and Grover), two horses, two miniature donkeys, and a herd of sheep. Outside the clinic she enjoys playing with her two boys, roller blading, biking, reading, and playing bells at church. She hopes to find time to return to enjoying hobbies again such as downhill skiing, water skiing, and golfing.

After working an hour away from each other for those two years, she and Dr. Ryan were ready to come together and open Heartland Veterinary Clinic.
